HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

Gerald R. Massie (1911-1989) was Missouri's first official state photographer, holding that position from 1945 to November 1956 when he was promoted to Head of the Information Section of Commerce and Industrial Development (CID). Almost exactly one year later, he became Assistant (aka Deputy) Director of all of CID. In 1962, he became Acting Director of the Division for a short time before going back to the Deputy position. Massie remained Assistant Director for the rest of his career, including from November 1969 to his retirement in April 1974 when he also served jointly as the Acting Director of the State Museum in the Capitol Building. Most importantly for Missouri's tourism division, though, Massie continued to take photographs for the Department throughout all of his administrative years.

His interest in photography developed early in life as a youth in his native Clinton, Missouri, when, at the age of ten, he won an Independence Day bicycle race around the courthouse. As a prize he received his first camera, a $1.98 Brownie. After a short time with the Clinton Eye newspaper, in 1936 Massie landed a night job for the Kansas City Star (Times) as a journeyman linotype operator. He did freelance photography during the day.

Drafted in the Army in early 1942, Massie served during World War II with the U.S. Strategic Air Force as an aerial photographer, documenting the effects of bombing missions and taking ground news photos. In England, he supervised a 22-man photo lab.

In 1945 Massie returned to Missouri and found a position as the state's photographer in the newly formed Resources and Development Commission, later called Commerce and Industrial Development. Assigned the task of promoting Missouri, he sent a steady stream of photographs to the Commission, and produced sixteen recreational booklets on Missouri regions.

Massie's images appeared in national magazines and newspapers, as well as Missouri state publications, on television stations, in encyclopedias and school textbooks. Publishers also printed them in foreign advertisements about Missouri, included reproductions on cake box tins, china plates, silver spoons, silk scarves, glass, postcards, and puzzles.

In his personal life, Massie married Henrietta Hendrich in late 1945. They had one daughter, Kathleen, born on October 18, 1946 and a son, Dan, born on February 1, 1951. Gerald Massie was a member of the Academy of Missouri Squires since 1961, a member of the Presbyterian Church in Jefferson City, and a Boy Scout leader.

Gerald Massie became known as the photographer for Missouri tourism. Massie was posthumously inducted into the Missouri Photojournalism Hall of Fame in Washington, MO on October 19, 2006. His images were – and still are – recognizable as true masterpieces of light and composition. This collection contains over 3,600 original images.

PHOTOGRAPHS, 1928-1987

Extent: 9 ½ Cubic feet; approximately 3,630 prints and negatives and 92 color slides

Arrangement: Arranged by size then subject

Scope and Content

This series contains Gerald Massie's photographs, both in his official capacity as state photographer and as a private citizen. The bulk of the collection includes images of state government (the Capitol building, Governor's mansion, etc.), recreation and scenery. There are also a substantial number of portraits, primarily of his children Dan Thomas Massie (1951-2016) and Kathleen Massie Pierce (1946-).

The negatives that correspond directly to a print are housed in the same folder as the print. For example, if the collection includes an 8x10, a 5x7, and a negative of the same image, all three can be found in the 8x10 folder.

Most of the images were indeed taken by Gerald Massie, but there are some from other photographers, for example Ralph Walker and Whitey Owens who also worked for CID. Photographers' names are included in the Excel metadata. Permission is granted for all Massie, Walker and Owens images unless otherwise indicated. Images by other or unknown photographers fall under standard copyright rules and are the responsibility of the patron.

All images have been digitized and are on DVDs in Reference. They are also on Missouri Digital Heritage online.
